Stacey MacDonald is a Supervising Assistant Federal Public Defender with the Southern District of Ohio for the Columbus and Dayton TRAD units. Previously she worked as a public defender with the King County Department of Public Defense – Associated Counsel for the Accused Division where she represented defendants facing felony charges. In her last few years at KCDPD-ACAD, Stacey was the Seattle Felony Trial Unit Supervisor. She is certified by the Washington State Supreme Court under SPRC2, to be lead counsel in trial level death penalty cases. In 2016, her defense team received the Washington State Bar Association's Courageous Award for their work in the defense in State of WA v. Christopher Monfort, which resulted in an 11 ½ month capital trial and a unanimous life verdict. Stacey graduated from the University of Washington with a BA in English Literature and received her J.D. degree from Gonzaga Law School.